

e-Learning and Performance - About Ray Jimenez, PhD

Participant Evaluation
from the eLearning Guild
Instructional Design Conference
Boston, June 2005

"Mr. Jimenez is a very colorful character. His presentation is great!"

"Dynamic!"

"Ray is my hero!"

"This is information I can put to use immediately!"

"Thank you for reality check!"

"Wonderful! I love this guy like I love Neil Postman's Books."

"Ray did a great job at making me rethink about my training methodologies to be more "end user focused and less controlling."

"Thinking about organics and how to manage better SMEs."

"Excellent speaker, very engaging and interesting. Great Workshop!"

"I thoroughly enjoyed this workshop and his presentation style."

"He walked his talk – practicing what he preached. He gave me rubrics and tools I will definitely be able to use in the near future."

"Ray's materials were comprehensive."

"Ray was obviously a subject matter expert with wonderful stage presence – articulate his points by storytelling and vivid examples."

"Very presentable & engaging speaker."

"Will be able to apply concepts learned at the workshop."

"Fantastic."

"I will come back for any other sessions he offers."

"Great innovative ideas! Challenges my ideas to think differently."

"A great session that questions a lot of the "rules" of instructional design."

"Ray was a very dynamic speaker. He used a lot of humor and I really enjoyed the session. He used a lot of the techniques that he talked about in his presentation, throughout his presentation. Great job!"

About Ray E. Jimenez, Ph.D.

Workshop Facilitator, Author, Interactive and Systems Designer, and Consultant for e-Learning

Ray Jimenez is the Chief Learning Architect and Co-Founder of Vignettes for Training, Inc., a systems development and consulting company specializing in e-Learning Management Performance Systems and online course development. Ray has over twenty-five years experience in the consulting and training industry. He started his career as management consultant for Coopers and Lybrand in the areas of information management systems and management training. He has delivered lectures and workshops and consulted with clients in the United States, Asia and Europe. Ray has designed the architecture of several e-learning and e-performance software and management systems. Ray is the author of "Learning My Way – Developing Breathing and Living e-Learning Programs", "Rapid e-Learning", "e-Learning: Implementing Programs from Prototyping, Building Courses and Web Hosting". Ray has presented to several associations and business organizations including chapters of the American Society for Training and Development (ASTD), VNU Learning and e-Learning Guild. He is the chairman of the ASTD Los Angeles e-Learning Special Division. He completed his PhD from St. Peter's College and Interactive Media programs from the University of California, Los Angeles. Workshop participants describe Ray as "fun", "engaging", "technically savvy", "has depth in e-learning experience", "balances theory and hands-on experience" and "inspiring."

"Here are the things I'm most impressed with: During the workshop, participants actually create their own mini-course, which is unique to this e-learning workshop. The resource manual, documents, the entire design process very thoroughly discusses content, software and system options to consider." "Ray Jimenez is fun!"

~CarolWaltz
Curriculum Designer, MetLife